

Employee Handbook - General Terms

Welcome to the Employee Handbook. This document outlines general employment conditions, employee codes of conduct, and organizational structure.

Notice Period: The company requires a notice period of 60 days for all employees resigning from their roles. The notice period cannot be waived or adjusted against leaves without management consent.

Probation Period: Newly joined employees undergo a probation period of 6 months. Upon successful completion of 6 months and a satisfactory manager review, employment is formalized.

Performance Review: Performance review cycles are bi-annual, held in April and October. Promotions and salary adjustments are decided during the April cycle.

Employee Handbook - Onboarding & Conduct
